POWER OF MANAGING DIRECTOR TO DISCONNECT LINES

The Managing Director may summarily disconnect any subscriber's exchange line and cause any apparatus belonging to the Corporation to be removed from the customer's premises if:

HOW TO CALL A NUMBER

Find from the Telecommunications directory the number of the person you wish to speak to. Find the dialling code if required. If the number is long and complicated write it down.

Remove the handset from the rest. Listen for dial tone which indicates you can call. If you hear engaged tone or no tone, restore the handset and try again. If you hear dial tone simply push the appropriate buttons for the required number, no pause is required when pushing the buttons. When you have completed calling allow a few seconds for the exchange to connect the call. If the number is free you will hear RINGING TONE. This means the telephone bell of the person you are telephoning is ringing, allow them some time to answer before you assume they are out.

If the number is engaged or if the lines are engaged you will hear the ENGAGED TONE, hang up and try again.

If the number is engaged or if the lines are engaged you will hear the UNOBTAINABLE TONE. Check if you have called the correct number and try again.

PLEASE NOTE:
If you take too long to start dialling or delay between dialling digits you may be given an ENGAGED TONE. Hang up and try again.

ESWATINI'S HISTORY, TRADITIONS AND GEOGRAPHY

A BRIEF HISTORY

Eswatini is an independent monarchy, rich in traditions and heritage, led by King Mswati III with parliament and consultation prescribing all laws and customs.

Eswatini is a Kingdom in Southern Africa, and covers an area of 17, 363 square kilometres. Originally the Royal line of Dlamini lived near Delgoa Bay and Nguni people were recorded as entering Kingdom in about 1600AD. In 1750 Dlamini III settled his people in the Lubombo Mountains, along the Pongola River. Ngwane III set up his headquarters at Dwaleni and was later laid to rest in the hills surrounding Pongola - known as Embilaneni. Later Sobhuza I, who was Ngwane III's grandson, colonised the Sotho, Tsongo and Nguni chiefdoms and moved north, to escape the Zulu threat, to Hlatikulu and the Ezulwini Valley and a new Swazi Nation was born, Sobhuza I married off two of his daughters to the Zulu leader bringing a period of peace of prosperity to Eswatini with the defeat of the Zulus led by Dingane at Hlatikulu in 1863.
Mswati I was the son of Sobhuza but was a minor when his father died. Mswati I himself died with the Queen Regent reigning until the accession of Mbandzeni when the kingdom was ruled by a provincial government of Boer, Britain and Swazi until 1894 when Eswatini became a protected dependency of South Africa under King Bhunu. After the Anglo Boer War in 1902, Eswatini was placed under British rule until 1968 when the Nation gained Independence. The Queen Regent reigned unrtil Sobhuza II came into power at the age of 21 years and it was he who set about reigning lost land of the Kingdom. 1978 saw the establishment of the Parliament of Eswatini with His Majesty retaining full power in census with his Council of State, his cabinet, his members of Parliament and his people.

In 1982 King Sobhuza II died leaving the Queen Regent to reign until 1986 when King Mswati III was crowned and today rules as executive Head of State.
